“ Jean, Jeff, and grandkids. I am sorry for your loss and offer my sincere condolences. We are out of town and missed the services for which we are sorry. There are no explanations for some things but knowing you for so many years, I know you have hope beyond the grave through the love, mercy, and grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the adoption into His family by God the Father. May the Holy Spirit guide, comfort, and strengthen you. May he lift your spirits, and provide you companionship and fellowship as you and your family recover from the loneliness Jerry's homegoing will bring. That's the bright side of the passing of a child of God. Jerry's home and enjoying the presence of Jesus for which we all have the eternal Hope of joining him there.

As for memories, there are so, so many over the years - the beach, tennis matches and tournaments, volleyball, card games late into the night, Sunday School socials and classes, girls' softball. Through all those things, Jerry was always Jerry. To me, he didn't try to be someone he wasn't. Always joyful, competitive, and playful, but honest, thoughtful, and caring. There are too many specific memories in this limited space to recall. But as I think of some of them, they bring a smile to my soul as I think of all the fun and fellowship.

Jean, just know that I, and Myra, will lift you, Jeff and the grandkids up in prayer and I know that you know that God hears. He will use time and comfort to heal the loneliness and hurt. May He bless you to the point that you can feel His presence and the outpouring of His love.

In Christ's love,
Boyce and Myra.

Jeff and family. My deepest condolences, thoughts, and prayers. These are sad times for the family. I pray for God's strength. It is very hard to understand God's grace yet it is upon all of you. Think of the wonderful love that has been shared with your dad, husband, and friend. My God continue to guide your journey in this life as the life coming is much more glorious than this one. He rests in the sanctuary of heaven with all the Holiness surrounding those there with him. With God's never ceasing love. Willie and Lisa Rooker
