“ Our deepest sympathy to the family. When someone we love dies it causes Pain and sorrow. Though we personally have never seen anyone raised from the dead, we have certain Scriptures that assure us of the resurrection. Jesus said: “The hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out.” (John 5:28, 29). We can also, comforted by the hope expressed by the upright man Job: He will call; The dead will answer (Job 14:13-15). To know that there is a better future awaiting those we have lost in death, where the issues, such as sickness and death that plague us today, will be things of the past is comforting. I hope these scriptures give you strength to endure the difficult days ahead.

“ I think the last time I saw Samiya Hallie was just a toddler. Motherhood definitely agreed with her. I first met Samiya when she and my daughter, Caitlin, had a class project together as freshmen in High School. One thing led to another and the class project turned into basketball That was just freshman year. She was all legs and braids and beauty. During BBall season in the following years she could be in the bleachers braiding the boys hair, then she'd do the girls. I loved Caitlin's braids. Samiya worked on her friends hair on many, many occasions, laughing and having fun...making memories for all of us. Martez, I can't share these wonderful memories without having you be part of this mixture. You were always a good brother to Samiya then and now. I love you, Darlin. always have - always will. You too, Oscar...Keara. This is but a skeleton of memories left for you all to fill in as you see fit. Memories. Keara, you and Caitlin can have Sr. yr. on through. My love and prayers go out to your families. I love the Lord and I don't question. I know that He blessed Oscar and Samiya with 3 beautiful babies who one day will read these rantings of an old woman and it will be your responsibilities to fill in the blanks so that they can know how their Mama grew up to be the beautiful spirit she was then and is now and will live in our hearts forever. God Bless You All
